Description

Residents in rural South Carolina have unique needs that play a major role in their health outcomes and quality of life. Health and behavioral health professionals who understand the specific needs, barriers, and strength of their patient population are able to successfully engage with those patients and provide high quality, patient-centered care. This training aims to provide necessary education and best practices related to the unique needs of vulnerable populations in rural SC, as well as specific health disparities present in our state.

Objectives

At the completion of this program, the participant will be able to:

- Identify demographics and related characteristics of vulnerable populations in rural South Carolina.
- Verbalize at least three health disparities experienced by vulnerable populations in rural South Carolina.
- Identify at least one community strength or resource they can use when engaging with patients or clients in need.
