Program Overview/Objectives

Medical providers and nurses receive minimal formal education in the collection of evidence in sexual assault cases and the recognition of other forms of interpersonal violence. This lack of knowledge can lead to signs of abuse going unrecognized, loss or destruction of evidence and/or further unintended trauma by systemic procedures.

This program will cover the following learning objectives:

1. Describe the components of the forensic exam.
2. Discuss the components of obtaining a health history.
3. Identify the essential components of a psychological assessment.
4. Identify the essential components of a physical assessment.
5. Demonstrate the steps of evidence collection.
6. Discuss the importance of documentation.
7. Discuss the dynamics of sexual assault.
8. Describe psychological reactions to sexual assault.
9. Recognize reasons for non-reporting of sexual assault/domestic violence.
10. Discuss ethics in working with sexual assault cases
11. Discuss nursing management of the sexual assault patient.
